PREFACE

Shall we write? is a semi-text and semi-workbook used in EN 211: Intermediate English course which focusing on writing skills. It can also be used from the beginning to the intermediate level. The main focus of this book is teaching students how to generate topics and write cohesive paragraphs. With this book, students will learn different styles of composing paragraphs, summary writing, and article responding. For example, in each unit students have to complete writing activities that will enhance their writing ability as well as providing some grammar points and writing techniques that the students need to know.

I hope this learning material will be useful. Comments to this book are gladly welcome.
